Women in Energy:
Navigating and Leading in the Energy Field

Are you interested in Energy Research, Energy Policy, Energy Business?

Join the Rutgers Energy Institute and Columbia University's Center on Global Energy Policy for the first Women in Energy event of the year, a panel conversation focused on female leadership in the energy sector. Panelists will share their experiences, career paths, and offer advice for students seeking to enter the energy/environment field.

At RUTGERS UNIVERSITY:
Busch Student Center - The Cove
604 Bartholomew Road
Piscataway, NJ

DATE AND TIME:
Wednesday, November 8, 2017
6:00pm to 8:00pm ET

This is a free, public event open to all. REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED.
To register, go to rei.rutgers.edu and click on the event under News and Announcements.

PANELISTS:
Serpil Guran, Director, Rutgers EcoComplex “Clean Energy Innovation Center”

Jeanne Fox, Adjunct Professor, School of International and Public Affairs at Columbia University; former Commissioner, New Jersey Board of Public Utilities; former Commissioner, New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy

Ellen Morris, Adjunct Professor, School of International and Public Affairs at Columbia University; President and Founder of Sustainable Energy Solutions

Alissa Park, Lenfest Chair in Applied Climate Science and Director of The Lenfest Center for Sustainable Energy, Columbia University

About the Women in Energy Program: WIE is aimed at increasing the presence of women in the energy sector, and over the mid to long term, the presence of women in senior and management roles across the energy space. The program seeks to empower students to take on leadership roles and realize their full potential, while building a thriving community of professional women. For more information contact: jem2245@sipa.columbia.edu