The Event

The EcoComplex, Rutgers University's Environmental Research & Extension Center, is proud to host this unique event that is designed to impact our daily environmental consciousness and stimulate our view of the world through the eyes of youths with special needs.

Please Join Us

for this wonderful event to celebrate the student-photographers, Burlington County dignitaries and representatives from Rutgers University who, through their visions and words, will strongly impact our daily awareness and personal commitments for our environment.

The Photographers

Twenty-Three students from The Mary A. Dobbins School have given us their intimate visions of the natural beauty of the world in contrast to the careless blemishes which human beings impose upon our earth.

The Gala Opening

is a public acknowledgement to "make a difference" in our world. This special day is to applaud the "S.E.E." photographers who, through their powerful photographs, have inspired and awakened all of our individual responsibilities for the care and stewardship of our planet.
